DISTRICT ATTORNEY CALLS DOWN A MANHATTAN MAN

MAN FROM MANHATTAN PUTS THE COUNTY TO BILL OF EXPENSE

J. W. Wainwright of Reno, who was cited to appear in the court of Justice Dumas yesterday afternoon, to answer the charge of having feloniously taken an automobile valued at $500 from Homer Snyder, of Manhattan. The case was dismissed on recommendation of District Attorney Sanders, as there were no grounds for criminal procedure, as it was strictly a civil suit.

Wainwright had sold the machine on time payments to Snyder, who was advertising the auto for sale by raffle. Hearing of this Wainwright went to Manhattan and found the auto in bad shape. He hired a man to put it in order and then drove down the street and never stopped until he reached Tonopah. Here he was notified by a deputy sheriff that a warrant for his arrest had been issued and that he would have to consider himself under arrest, but would be allowed to go on his personal recognizance.

When the case was dismissed Constable Santos demurred, saying he was going to take Wainwright back to Manhattan, that "when I go after a man I never fail to bring him back."

District Attorney Sanders reminded the late constable that the law was in the hands of the district attorney and that constables did not cut much ice, anyway. It took some time to convince Santos that he could not forcibly remove Wainwright from Tonopah without some more substantial cause for complaint than he had. Santos finally was convinced that he was a very small peg in the administration of justice and left for home, a sadder man.

In the meantime it is timely to inquire who pays the costs or why the county is put to any expense simply to gratify the whim of the complainant.

MEANS IMPROVEMENT FOR ROCHESTER

SALT LAKE AND ASSOCIATES FINALLY SUCCESSFUL IN FIGHT AGAINST NENZEL

At the meeting of the Rochester Mines company, held at Lovelock, John F. Cowan, of this city, was elected president and manager to succeed Joseph T. Nenzel. Two of Nenzel's directors, Wayne T. Wilson and E. B. Miller, resigned and were succeeded on the board by Samuel Platt, United States district attorney at Carson, and W. C. Pitt, Lovelock banker, who were favored by Cowan and his associates. Nenzel remains on the board and has agreed to work in full accord with the new management.

It is understood steps will be taken at once for the erection of a mill, which, it is said, will be of 100 tons capacity. Mr. Cowan is known as an energetic and thorough mining man and in the campaign of development he will doubtless undertake promptly, will be watched with interest locally as well as in Rochester. The actual transfer of the management to Mr. Cowan and the new board is to be made June 15, when the main offices of the company will be moved to this city.

The settlement promises to have a beneficial effect on the camp of Rochester, which has long been deprived of that advantage through the controversies that have existed. The taking of positive steps for the erection of a mill at Rochester is expected to be followed by another boom there and by a great advance in mining operations. Ores shipped to date have been of the higher grade which would stand the expense of railroad freight and hauling. A large amount of good milling ore has been held on the dumps awaiting the coming of a mill, and development work has been counted almost entirely to the search for the higher grade ore permitting shipment.—Salt Lake Tribune.

SPECTACULAR DRAMA TONIGHT

One of the most thrilling, awe-inspiring moments of George Kleine's glorious production of the Cines photo-drama, "Antony and Cleopatra," is when the Egyptian queen orders her slave thrown to the crocodiles of the Nile for daring to have fallen in love with Marc Antony. The picture is realistic in the extreme. The huge monsters are seen swimming about the stream, which flows at the foot of the palace steps, laying in wait for any article of food that may be thrown to them. The curtains of the entrance port and Cleopatra and her retinue appear, followed by a powerful slave, who carries the young girl securely bound. At the queen's signal, the slave throws the girl into the waters, the crocodiles make one dive for her, and all disappear into the depths of the river. Meanwhile Cleopatra looks on unmoved by pity, regal even in her hatred and malevolence, flashing proud fury from her eyes, and a sneer of conscious disdain and power enveloping her features. It is an episode both dramatic and sensational that holds the spectator spellbound, yet carries with it no feeling of repulsion that might naturally be expected. It is superbly acted and superbly carried out. This is only one of a host of scenes that go to make the Cines "Antony and Cleopatra" the greatest photo-drama yet produced. The George Kleine production is announced for tonight at the Pastime theater, one show only, beginning at 7:15 p. m.

AMUSEMENTS

BUTLER THEATER

At the Butler this evening another very interesting program will be shown, as follows: A Kalem drama, "His Indian Nemesis," Vitaphone comedy, "The Speeder's Revenge," and a two-reel Lubin drama, "A Father's Heart," in which the daughter of the Burgomaster is engaged to an honest blacksmith; the son of a nobleman determines to marry her against her will—the lovers elope but are caught; the girl locked in her room; the blacksmith in a dungeon. The girl escapes, secures her lover's release and they flee to a distant village and are married, and later go to America. The nobleman also goes to America and meets Anna—and after much persuasion gets Anna to leave her husband. In a short time both die and the child is placed in an orphan asylum. Years later the father meets the child in a moving picture studio, and when he sees an actor try to kiss her, attacks him; he then makes himself known and the daughter embraces him with affection.—Adv.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAY

The high school play, "All a Mistake," which will be given at the Nevada theater, Wednesday, May 27, is a farce comedy by W. C. Parker. A match-making uncle with plenty of money wishes to have his nephew, a gay young lieutenant, marry a girl of his choosing. The nephew naturally has other ideas on the subject and marries his old sweetheart. He wires the uncle that he has married Nellie, the old gentleman thinks Nellie is the girl he has chosen, and wires the nephew to come, but fearing he will be unable to obtain leave he wires he is dying, to make sure the nephew will come. George arrives with his wife and finds the old gentleman has jessed him and is out hunting. A lively mixup occurs, the proximity of the uncle's estate to the asylum leads everyone to imagine that everyone else is insane and the fun waxes furious for the three acts.

The play will be staged in the best manner possible and those who attend are promised a treat.

BRANCH RICKEY

Red McGhee says:
I'm kind o' scared to say a word about this queer Branch Rickey bird who leads St. Louis's Browns. He's got the pure speech bug, y'know, an' if my language ain't just so h'll another me in frowns. On Sundays Rickey goes to church an' leaves his ball team in the lurch with Anstine for their boss. He's sure a queer o' nut to crack, an' yet they think he's got the knack to put the Browns across.

He's put the ban on cigars, don't 'low his men to place no bets an' poker is taboo; he keeps 'em from the gay, white lights, don't let 'em stay out late o' nights or even drink a few. But listen, here's the biggest shock—the players punch a big time clock fore practice ev'ry day. When some Brown pulls a baseball sin he gets his bawliout lecture in a gentlemanly way.

The champions of the good old days can't help but laugh at these new ways o' startin' out to etim. The ol' time boss would tear his hair an' rant around an' cuss an' swear to bring his men t' time. But, fans, we ain't got no excuse fer thinkin' Branch's bolts are loose. We oughta praise him highly. While he may never cop a flag, one chance he'll always have to brag—he's baseball's Doctor Willey.
